RED ROCK and JOSHUA TREE ROCK EQUIPMENT CHECKLIST

This list was designed for the “worst case scenario,” a trip with significant inclement weather. In serious conditions it’s not uncommon for a climber to need every piece of clothing and equipment on this list. However, if a program does not encounter significant weather, there may be items here that are not used. As you prepare for your trip, it’s important to plan for the worst and hope for the best.

On the first day of your program, an AAI guide will work with you to refine your mountain kit to ensure that you bring exactly what’s needed given the forecast. If you have questions about items you may bring them along for consideration and extra items can be left locked in your car.

Red Rock: The Red Rock Canyon National Conservation Area is located in the high desert about 20 miles west of Las Vegas. In the spring (March and April) and the Fall (Oct. and Nov.), when “climbing conditions are at their best, daytime highs often climb to 80°F with nighttime lows near 40°F to 50°F. The winters are normally cool and snow often covers the ground deep in the shaded canyon floors. Rain or snow occasionally falls, but the vast majority of days are sunny and fair. While routes in the shade can be too cold to enjoy, south facing walls often warm up to offer pleasant climbing with temperatures in the mid 60’s throughout the winter. The weather can be breezy, especially high on multi-pitch routes.

Red Rock rentals can be arranged through AAI.

Joshua Tree: Joshua Tree National Park is located in the high desert of southern California. The winters are generally cool with highs in the 60’s and lows at night in the 30’s. Rain, or even snow, occasionally falls, but most days are sunny and pleasant. Routes in the shade are often a bit too cold in the middle of winter, but those in the sun seem just right. The weather can be breezy, and it is a good idea to bring a lightweight wind shirt. In the Spring (March and April) and the Fall (October and November) daytime highs often climb to 80°F with lows at night near a cool and comfortable 40°F to 50°F.

Joshua Tree equipment rentals can be arranged through Nomad Ventures, please call them directly to check shop hours and rental availability.

PROVIDED EQUIPMENT: Climbing rope, anchors, solid waste bags

Please be sure to check the forecast several days prior to your course to ensure that you are properly prepared for your course.

Soft Shell Jacket or Windshirt A soft shell is a weather resistant, breathable, and stretchy freedom of movement piece. This piece is versatile in the sense of movement. It is often called an “action layer.” It is weather resistant, meaning it can put up with light showers and wind. Also if it gets wet it dries fairly quickly. This enables you to not have to stop and put on another piece when the wind picks up or a light shower happens. Because it is water resistant, and not waterproof, it also breathes fairly well. This enables you to move without overheating, so you don’t have to constantly stop to change out layers to regulate body temperature. They are also made of a stretchy material so there are no restrictions to your movement during activity. Put all those together and you have a pretty versatile layer, the Soft Shell. Tent 3 season tent. We recommend a rain fly goes all the way to the ground on all sides. A “bathtub” floor for the inner tent is also recommended.
